

Chris Pierce:

A graduate of the University of Georgia and the summer training program at the American Conservatory Theatre in San Francisco, I performed as a professional actor in Atlanta for 6+ years before relocating to Los Angeles in 2005 with my wife. Some of my theater credits include performances with Essential Theater, Atlanta Classical Theatre, Wing and a Prayer, Dad's Garage, a six-month, sold-out run as Bill Clinton, George W. Bush and J. Edgar Hoover in the original political satire Limousine Ride at Ansley Park Playhouse, and several performances in Mayfly at Hothouse STC in North Hollywood. Jim Karwisch and I comprise the improvisation performance duo, JaCKPie, which has appeared at numerous Atlanta theatres, the Actors Theatre of Louisville and the Chicago Improv Festival. We have also produced and directed larger ensembles and taught improvisation classes and workshops. My on-camera experience includes quite a few industrial films for major corporations, independent films, regional and national commercials, and an appearance as the "Henpecked Husband" in the feature film Bobby Jones: Stroke of Genius.
